

Human Interest Advisors LLC (“Adviser” and “we”) is registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission as an investment adviser. Brokerage and investment advisory services and fees differ, and it is important for you to understand these differences. Free and simple tools are available to research firms and financial professionals at investor.gov/CRS, which also provides educational materials about broker-dealers, investment advisers, and investing.

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

We provide investment advisory services to employer-sponsored retirement plans, including 401(k) Plans and 403(b) Plans (“Plan” or “Plans”) that are also regulated under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (“ERISA”). In connection with our services to Plans, we make available investment advisory services to Plan participants (“Participants”, “you” or “your”). We offer our services to you online through a platform. A Participant can: (1) accept our recommendation of a portfolio (each a “Model Portfolio”) with target percentages for investment in certain Investment Options based on information provided (e.g., current age) by the Plan and Participant and assumptions we make regarding your financial circumstances and preferred risk level; (2) complete or update such information, in which case we could recommend a different Model Portfolio that you can accept; (3) choose a Model Portfolio by indicating your risk tolerance; or (3) select on your own from the Plan’s available Investment Options (“Participant Selected Portfolio”). For Participants who do not make one of these selections, we will select a default Model Portfolio based on the Participant’s current age (“Default Allocation”) because the Plan designated Adviser to provide investment advisory services as the “qualified default investment alternative” or “QDIA.”

We provide a limited investment offering in that we provide advice with respect to limited types of investments, currently third-party open-end mutual funds, money market funds and cash equivalents and starting in the first half of 2025, collective investment trusts, and in the future could include other types of vehicles (“Investment Options”). We work with each Plan to develop the group of Investment Options that become the investment menu for that Plan. The Model Portfolios can range from conservative to very aggressive. Model Portfolios are reviewed by the Adviser’s investment committee on a quarterly basis.

The Participant advisory relationship is formed when the Participant uses the Adviser’s advisory services. We have discretion to manage the Model Portfolios; however, the investments in a Participant’s Model Portfolio also would depend on a Participant providing and updating their risk information on the platform and the Participant actively selecting our recommendation. For Participants invested in a Model Portfolio, once each quarter, we will determine whether to rebalance your account to be aligned with the applicable Model Portfolio. Additionally, unless you choose a Participant Selected Portfolio or opt-out, your account will be opted into a “glide path” resulting in your Model Portfolio being periodically adjusted to another Model Portfolio, with the goal of gradually reducing the expected portfolio risk as you age. Other than these features, we will not review the Participant account to determine whether the Model Portfolio continues to be appropriate or to assess whether a different Model Portfolio would be better. Participant Selected Portfolios are non-discretionary meaning that you have the ultimate decision over purchases and sales of investments. There is not a minimum dollar amount for a Participant to establish a relationship to receive advisory services.

Questions to ask us:

Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Why or why not? How will you choose investments to recommend to me?

What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education and other qualifications?

What do these qualifications mean?

What fees will Participants pay?

Advisory services fees are charged at the Plan-level and are calculated based on the total amount of the Plan’s Participant account balances. Advisory fees are charged monthly. The fee is asset-based, meaning the fee is a percentage of total assets under management, and is typically 0.12% annually (or 0.01% monthly). The Adviser’s fee is deducted from the Plan’s assets, and the applicable portion of this fee will be reflected in the balance of your account, unless the Plan sponsor has agreed to assume these fees. Fees to terminated accounts are charged until the Participant account balance is zero or the assets are no longer held by the custodian. There are other fees and costs related to your investment advisory services that you incur. Investment Options, such as mutual funds, pay management fees and certain funds have sales charges such as 12b-1 fees (fees paid by the fund to an intermediary for selling or servicing the mutual fund's shares). We mitigate the conflict associated with 12b-1 fees by not recommending such share classes; if a Plan includes such share classes, those funds were selected by the Plan sponsor or the Plan's third party adviser. The Plan also pays other fees and costs to our affiliated Recordkeeper for software, recordkeeping, administration and other services and (in some cases) to the trustee. The Recordkeeper's asset-based fee typically ranges up to 0.60% (or 0.05% monthly) and is deducted from the Plan's assets; the applicable portion of this fee will be reflected in the balance of your account. A significant portion, or possibly all, of the Recordkeeper's non-asset based fees could also be deducted from your account, if Plan sponsor and Recordkeeper agree to do so.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

For additional information, please see Regulatory Filings for Form ADV - Part 2A (Brochure), Item 5 or contact support@humaninterest.com for the Plan's current Participant Fee Disclosure.

Questions to ask us:

Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investment. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interests ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means:

- Adviser is wholly owned by its parent ("Recordkeeper"), which serves as the recordkeeper to the Plans. Together, the Adviser and Recordkeeper offer a bundled service, but lower fees could be available through service providers offering advisory services separately from retirement recordkeeping services.
- Adviser owns its own algorithms, but Adviser is dependent on the Recordkeeper for certain technology services, such as the online platform, ongoing development and maintenance of non-advisory services and certain resource sharing.

Questions to ask us:

How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

How do your financial professionals make money?

Adviser's financial professionals receive compensation as full-time salaried employees, including a base salary, bonus that is not directly based on fund performance or assets under management, and stock options in Adviser's parent.

Do you or your financial professionals have legal or disciplinary history?

No. Please visit investor.gov/CRS for a free and simple search tool to research our firm and our financial professionals.

Questions to ask us:

As a financial professional, do you have any disciplinary history? For what type of conduct?
